U.S. Patent and Trademark Office PTOL-303 (Rev. 08-06) Continuation of 11. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because:

While representing different alternative interpretations of the claims, Heckel and Burke both appear to be solid references. The arguments are not found to be persuasive and the Final action appears to be appropriate.

However, upon quick inspection, there appears to be some new material added to some of the claims (specifically claim 21, but other claims may have new limitations as well). Examiner can't make a distinctive comment on this new material as it has not been presented before. These limitations would require further analysis for 112 and new matter, along with further search and/or consideration.
